Lauren Pilié is a personal injury trial lawyer based in New Orleans, Louisiana. She is the first attorney in Louisiana to be certified in trucking law by the National Board of Trial Advocacy. She began her career doing defense work, and she had her first trial two weeks after getting her bar results. Lauren switched to the Plaintiff's side three years into her practice, and she enjoys representing injured people and their families. Lauren started focusing on trucking wrecks in approximately 2017, and she has devoted considerable time into learning about truck crash cases. After a lifetime of driving almost every type of vehicle (cars, trucks, motorcycles, ATVs, dirt bikes, monster trucks, etc.), Lauren decided to attend trucking school in 2019 to fully learn what it was like to drive an 18-wheeler. She has been all over the country and to Canada to depose trucking company representatives. Lauren hopes that at the very least, after leaving the deposition, that she gives the corporate safety rep the desire to increase their company's safety and also to have knowledge of the areas in which to do so.
